

CVRD listened to residents' concerns

Dear Editor:

Congratulations, Director Brooke Hodson and the Cowichan Valley Regional District for making the right decision and turning down Capital Kart Club's second permit application.

The CVRD has listened to the concerns of the residents present at a public meeting on the subject. No kart track please.

With all the supporters of CKC popping out of the woodwork, why has no other community on the Island welcomed them with open arms? Probably the same reasons that were raised at the public meeting.

CKC supporters, out-of-towners and not-in-my-backyarders who oppose the CVRD decision need get to work in their areas to open up space for CKC where they are apparently welcome. Not just be parachuted into an heavy industrial zoned area and then expect to manipulate the zoning and effectively remove the property from it's proper zoned use by means of a temporary use permit for years.

D. Beldessi, Youbou